The expedition is planned for the 11th-16th September 2005. Going out on Sat 10th and Leaving our cars at Penzance, we will first go by ferry to St Mary's then by inter-island ferry to St Martins where Tim Allsop and his dive operation is based. Sadly we have to return on Saturday 17th September.

Once on St Martins, the accommodation is self catering and is close to a general store, and luckily not too far from the only (but well frequented) pub on the island. Weather permitting, we should get six days diving in (Nitrox is not available).

Should there be enough interest then an SDC could be run, such as PRM, O2 administration or Chartwork and position fixing.

THE BOTTOM LINE—THE APPROXIMATE COST is £315 per person, this includes, diving, accommodation, ferry from Penzance and air fills (but no food).

To secure a place, please give me a deposit of £50, usual rules apply, if after paying the deposit you are unable to participate on the expedition then the full cost is still payable unless you are able to find someone who can take your place so I would advise that you take out insurance just in case the worst happens.
